Tojo Says Enemy Defeated In Beginning, Now Strikes Back

NIP VICTORY FORECAST

Sober Appraisal Of Outlook Given Before Leaders By "Son Of Heaven".

By International News Service—Japan's two highest leaders—Emperor Hirohito and Premier Hideki Tojo—joined today in giving the 83rd special session of the Japanese Diet a sober appraisal of the war outlook, warning that the United States, "defeated at the beginning," was now "overcoming many difficulties and dangers and the war is growing in intensity."

The emperor, in one of his infrequent declarations on the course of the war, termed Japan's present war situation "truly grave" in an imperial rescript that was read in his presence at the formal opening ceremonies of the special diet session, according to a domestic Tokyo broadcast reported to the office of War Information.

Tojo then began making his address, pledging to "make his majesty rest at ease" and praising the "very great efforts" of the people on the home front and paying tribute to "those who died in war."

In the address, as broadcast to the Japanese people by the Tokyo domestic radio, Tojo said: "The present war situation is very complicated. The enemy who was defeated at the beginning is, in fear of the richness of our conquered territory, trying to overwhelm our nation. The enemy is overcoming many difficulties and dangers and the war is growing in intensity."

Fighting Desperately
"They are fighting desperately. Our nation is crushing him and attempting to win the war to victory. Parallel with our men on the front, the duty we, the people, must do is to expand our fighting strength. This duty is not an easy one. It is difficult to imagine. All the people in one ball of fire are fighting, by discarding all the past evils in an effort to conquer hardships."

Tojo asserted that "there is not the slightest doubt but the ultimate victory will be ours" and told the legislators that Germany was ready to carry out in Europe a "new plan of free military operations in all directions" that would help "bring the United States and Britain to their knees."

Forgets Sneak Attack
Tojo, conveniently forgetting the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, said the war was one in which "our empire was unavoidably compelled to rise to fight for its defense and existence."

Germans Admit Defeat And Pray for Peace, Freed Prisoners Say

LEITH, Scotland, Oct. 26—The Germans already know that the Allies have them beaten and many pray that the war will end soon, exchanged British prisoners of war declared today after their return to Britain from prison camps in the Reich.

Nearly 3,700 Britons were brought into port in Scotland aboard the Empress of Russia and the Swedish liner Drottningholm following an exchange with German repatriates at Gothenburg, Sweden.

The freed former prisoners were greeted at the docks by cheering throngs and skirling bagpipes. Ship sirens screamed a deafening welcome.

The Germans in the Reich, already convinced that they have been defeated, face increasing privations daily and both their industrial and agricultural output is falling, the repatriates said.

Without the Gestapo, the repatriates reported, the civilians of Germany would call a halt to the war tomorrow.

Nation Broken
"The Germans are down and when they are down they want to talk," said Frank Godfrey, a highland ambulance crew member. Germans told him things, he said, indicating the nation is broken physically and morally and the average man and woman is praying for peace.

Three years ago when he was captured, said Cpl. G. Burgess, the Germans were swashbuckling and vindictive.

"Before we left," he continued, "they allowed us to chat freely with the villagers who came to us demanding truth of the progress of the war. Older people freely criticized Hitler to us. Younger people are beginning to lose their blind faith in him."

Treatment in the German prison camps improved, many prisoners said, as British and American aerial raids against the Reich increased.

The despair of the Germans was said to have mounted steadily since the beginning of this year. Numerous Germans said frankly they hoped the Americans and British would invade and reach Germany before the Russians. Some said Russian prisoners were treated far worse than the Britons.

One prisoner said he witnessed a recent American Flying Fortress raid on the Fock-Wulf plant at Marienburg. He said the factory was wiped out and he was able to count at least 96 bombers which dropped hundreds of bombs right on the target.

"LAYAWAY" PLAN HALTS WASTE OF SOLDIER FOOD

CAMP CROWDER, Mo., Oct. 26—They don't waste much food at central signal corps school since the Army installed its "layaway" plan.

When a man finishes his meal and walks up to the mess hall carbage can with his plate half full, the mess sergeant takes his plate and "checks" it in the icebox, so that the soldier may begin his next meal where he left off on the last one.

The new service, part of an intensified food conservation campaign, is reserved only for the worst offenders against the principle that wasted food is a real help to Hitler.

Thus far, the mess sergeants haven't had to check many plates, but the system has proved an effective incentive for the men to judge their appetites more accurately when they fill their plates. Only three ounces of garbage per man are allowed each day.

The system has been so good that even Mother Hubbard's dog would refuse a bone from the CSCS mess hall, the mess sergeants claim.

130,000 STARVING ON STREETS OF CALCUTTA

LONDON, Oct. 26—Press dispatches to London reported today that 130,000 starving persons now are camping in the streets of Calcutta, India.

Thousands of free food centers were said to have been set up to care for the people, but the tremendous influx of hungry persons and the hardships of a current heat wave were greatly hampering relief efforts.

JAP EVACUATION OF KISKA MADE BY SUBMARINES

"We Got Quite A Few Of Them," Vice Admiral Kinkaid Declares

CLEVERLY COVERED ACT

Yank Destroyers Move Right In Midst Of Careless Enemy U-Boats

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—Vice Admiral Thomas Kinkaid, commander of American naval forces in the North Pacific, expressed the belief today that the Japanese evacuated their Kiska garrison by submarines and added that we "got quite a few of them."

Kinkaid made the statement at Secretary of the Navy Knox' regular news conference and added that the Aleutians provided the United States with a short, well-protected route to Japan.

During the conference Knox announced that Kinkaid would be assigned as commander of naval forces in the southwest Pacific, succeeding Vice Admiral Arthur S. Carpender.

Kinkaid told newsmen that the Japanese very cleverly covered up their evacuation and that American forces were not certain whether all Japs had fled until at least 24 hours after they made their landing on August 12.

Japs Move Fast

The admiral expressed the opinion that the Japs decided right after the American invasion of Attu not to support their garrison on that island and to evacuate Kiska.

"I think they started within two weeks after the Attu landing to take out some of their non-essential units from Kiska by submarine," Kinkaid said.

"They were very clever about it," the admiral added. "I felt they were evacuating Kiska. I said jokingly at the time that if the Japs wanted help I would provide half the transportation for their troops."

Kinkaid said he believed Japanese subs were capable of carrying about 100 men on a trip. He declined to be specific about the number of Jap subs that were sunk.

Catch Submarines

"Right after the Attu invasion I sent destroyers to screen and shut off the traffic to and from Kiska," Kinkaid continued. "They got right into the subs which weren't very alert and treated them badly."

He was pressed by reporters for (Continued on Page Three)

GRAND PRIZE TO BE AWARDED IN MASK PARADE

Arrangements for Circleville's big Halloween parade, scheduled Friday at 8 p. m., are rapidly taking form, with Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the event, expecting scores of entries in various forms of competition.

Prizes are to be awarded in many classifications, merchants cooperating with the Chamber of Commerce making substantial contributions for awards.

Dan McClain, parade chairman, said Tuesday that an additional award will be made. After judging has been completed at the courthouse following the parade a grand prize of $5 will be awarded to the individual determined to be the most appropriately dressed in the show. Whether man, woman or child, the judges will make their selection from the group of prize winners.

Two bands, Circleville high school and Walnut township high school, will add to the festivities. All persons masking—and they must be masked or dressed properly to participate in the parade—should report at the high school at 7:30 Friday evening. The procession through the business district will get under way promptly at 8.

BOMBER "EXPECTANT," SO IS CREW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—House ways and means committee adoption of an excise tax program in excess of a billion dollars was forecast today. Bulk of the additional revenue would be raised through increased postage, heavier levies on so-called luxury commodities.

As the committee reconvened to begin voting on the various proposals involved, the opinion current in congress was that the new revenue bill will not greatly exceed two billion dollars when finally completed for presentation to the house.

BERLIN ADMITS SHOOTING DOWN BIG AIRLINER

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 26—An official admission was made by the Germans today that a Nazi warplane shot down the Swedish transport-airliner Gripen in which 13 persons, including one American, were killed.

The German air attaché at Stockholm presented his government's regrets that a German plane mistakenly had shot down the craft off the Swedish coast Friday night, while it was enroute to Stockholm from England.

Sweden is to continue discussion of the matter through diplomatic channels in Berlin.

The Swedish press, in editorials reported to the OWI, declared the incident called for re-examination of the arrangement under which Germany was permitted to fly courier planes across Swedish territory.

"Something else besides protests and apologies is required—something that will obviate similar disasters and cause the Germans to behave differently toward neutral countries," said the Dagens Nyheter.

The incident, said the Social Demokraten, "cannot fail to affect Sweden's attitude toward German courier plane traffic."

JUDGE QUITS $5,000 JOB FOR SEABEES SERVICE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 26—A voluntary salary cut from $5,000 a year to $96 a month was in prospect today for Judge L. B. Forsling, former Iowa state senator and state representative.

Judge Forsling announced he had volunteered for work with the navy "Seabees" as a carpenter's mate, second class, and will take his final examination this week.

If he passes, he will start swinging a hammer in the Seabees as he did 30 years ago when he was earning his way through law college.

Mine Strike Spreads To New Field

No Signs Of Back-To-Work Movement Despite WLB Order To Unions

By International News Service—No signs of a general back-to-work movement among striking coal miners in eight states developed today as the deadline fixed by the War Labor Board for the termination of the unauthorized stoppages passed with only a few diggers returning to the pits.

Only 2,300 of Alabama's 22,000 idle miners returned to work yesterday in answer to the WLB's ultimatum that the strikes in that state would be referred to President Roosevelt if the men did not return to work.

The strike spread to the eighth state, West Virginia, where more than 5,000 miners in the Fairmount fields were expected to quit.

States previously affected by the strikes were Alabama, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Arkansas.

All the strikers are members of the United Mine Workers of America whose officials, including the president, John L. Lewis, had appealed for a back-to-work movement.

As the strikes went into their twelfth day, thousands of tons of coal were lost to the war effort daily. In the Alabama fields alone, daily coal production was reduced by 50,000 tons. At least 18 open hearth and steel furnaces were closed in that area.

A survey by the Alabama mining institute disclosed that only 14 of more than 80 pits in that area were operating.

The brightest spot in the dark coal strike picture was in Ohio where 2,000 miners, a majority of those on strike, returned to work.

SALVAGE WORK COMPLETED ON LINER NORMANDIE

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—Salvage work on the former French luxury liner Normandie was completed today as plans were completed for turning over the giant sea queen to the Navy tomorrow.

Re-christened the U. S. S. Lafayette, following seizure by the U. S. government, the vessel, stripped of all its equipment for civilian comforts was converted into a troop carrier and almost ready to sail when fire swept her from stem to stern on February 9, 1942. Thousands of tons of water pumped into the craft through an entire afternoon and evening, caused the ship to list and overturn in her Hudson river berth on an outgoing tide.

At first considered unsalvageable, righting of the 83,000-ton vessel was one of the engineering marvels of modern times, and the underwater work necessary provided a major program for U. S. navy divers who capitalized on the situation to make the operation the site of one of the finest navy diving schools in the country.

Righted, and the water pumped out of her hull, the craft will be turned over to the navy tomorrow by Merritt, Chapman and Scott, contractors who performed the mammoth task.

Appropriate ceremonies are planned for the event at which Captain Bernard E. Manseau, U. S. N., supervisor of the salvage operations will officiate. The ship will be "received" by Captain H. V. McKittrick, representing Rear Admiral Monroe Kelly, commandant of the New York Navy Yard at Brooklyn, following which it will be refitted as a troop-carrier.

Originally built at a cost of $56,000,000, cost of salvaging the Lafayette to date has been $4,500,000. However, work yet to be done is expected to bring the total to about $20,000,000.

SOVIET CLOSING TRAP

Nazi Leaders Pull Troops Westward As Prongs Of Pincers Close

By International News Service—German troops in central Italy staggered back to a strong new line south of Rome today under heavy blows from Allied armies which captured at least seven additional towns on the approaches to the Italian capital.

The new Nazi line runs from Mondragone on the Tyrrhenian seacoast to Venafrò in the center and thence to the Adriatic.

It embraces several extremely strong positions. Allied headquarters are not overlooking the possibility of a major German counter offensive from this line, with Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in charge of reconstituted and greatly strengthened Nazi forces.

Enemy reinforcements are believed to be pouring into Italy.

The present withdrawal is being carried out in an orderly and systematic fashion. Allied patrols, in the words of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's communique, "are being pushed forward with vigor," with positions being advanced generally all along the front.

Hard Battle Ahead

Everything foreshadows a hard and costly battle immediately ahead, once the Allies begin their expected assaults on the revised enemy positions.

The new positions are admirably suited to give the Germans every advantage and the Allies every disadvantage because of the terrain. The Germans are clinging to a canal which forms the key point of the Maccico ridge line at Mondragone and forms a powerful backdrop.

Taking full advantage of the German withdrawal from the west end of the line to the Adriatic, both the United States Fifth and the British Eighth Army plunged ahead on the heels of the Nazi army, seizing high ground dominating the roads to Rome. They ran into severe rear-guard fighting, particularly at points overlooking the Volturno valley.

Retreat Covered

American troops ran into endless lines of mines and booby-traps, while the same situation developed on the Eighth Army front. As the Germans fell back, they occasionally tossed heavy bursts of artillery fire into the Allied spearheads, particularly in the San Stefano area and in the region of Baranello and Bojano where fighting (Continued on Page Three)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—The sight of a policeman on a horse chasing a motorist, might seem appropriate in a slap-stick movie comedy but it actually happened—and successfully, in New York.

Hero of the incident is Patrolman Henry Michel who saw Henry Brown, 42-year-old Negro, hit a woman with his automobile and then sped off. Michel urged on his 14-year-old mount and after firing two shots in the direction of the disappearing car, caught it two blocks away.

Brown was charged with assault, leaving the scene of an accident, dangerous driving and driving when intoxicated.

He predicted an even more serious shortage unless the government acts soon to halt the manpower drain.

SOVIET CLOSING TRAP

Nazi Leaders Pull Troops Westward As Prongs Of Pincers Close

By International News Service
German troops in central Italy staggered back to a strong new line south of Rome today under heavy blows from Allied armies which captured at least seven additional towns on the approaches to the Italian capital.

The new Nazi line runs from Mondragone on the Tyrrhenian seacoast to Venafrò in the center and thence to the Adriatic.

It embraces several extremely strong positions. Allied headquarters are not overlooking the possibility of a major German counter offensive from this line, with Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in charge of reconstituted and greatly-strengthened Nazi forces.

Enemy reinforcements are believed to be pouring into Italy.

The present withdrawal is being carried out in an orderly and systematic fashion. Allied patrols in the words of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's communique, "are being pushed forward with vigor," with positions being advanced generally all along the front.

Hard Battle Ahead

Everything foreshadows a hard and costly battle immediately ahead, once the Allies begin their expected assaults on the revised enemy positions.

The new positions are admirably suited to give the Germans every advantage and the Allies every disadvantage because of the terrain. The Germans are clinging to a canal which forms the key point of the Massico ridge line at Mondragone and forms a powerful backstop.

Taking full advantage of the German withdrawal from the west end of the line to the Adriatic, both the United States Fifth and the British Eighth Army plunged ahead on the heels of the Nazi army, seizing high ground dominating the roads to Rome. They ran into severe rear-guard fighting, particularly at points overlooking the Volturno valley.

Retreat Covered

American troops ran into endless lines of mines and booby-traps, while the same situation developed on the Eighth Army front. As the Germans fell back, they occasionally tossed heavy bursts of artillery fire into the Allied spearheads, particularly in the San Stefano area and in the region of Baranello and Bojano where fighting (Continued on Page Three)

Here are questions and answers concerning rationing of jellies, jams and preserves which starts October 31. The series was prepared by the Office of Price Administration:

Q. Which stamps will be used for buying fruit spreads? A. Blue stamps X, Y, Z in War Ration Book 2, and the green stamps in War Ration Book 4.

Q. How will point values for food spreads be made public? A. OPA will announce point values when rationing begins, on the 9th table of processed food point values effective November 1. Copies of this table will be posted in all stores.

Q. Will all jams and jellies have the same point value? A. All jams and non-citrus marmalades will have the same point value. All jellies and fruit butters will have the same point value.

Q. Will families be required to report stocks of fruit spreads on hand? A. No, neither home-made nor commercial varieties will have to be declared.

Q. Will points have to be given up for all fruit spreads? A. Not for citrus marmalades, although these may later be brought under the rationing program if it should become necessary.

Q. What will each person's allowance of fruit spreads be? A. Jams and jellies are not rationed on a per person allowance. They will be bought with processed food points.

Q. Why have these products been brought under rationing? A. Jams, jellies and other fruit spreads are becoming an important food item because of the increased consumption of bread.

Rationing will slow down the present rate of buying so that available supplies will last throughout the year and each person gets his fair share.

Q. What points have to be given up for all fruit spreads? A. Not for citrus marmalades, although these may later be brought under the rationing program if it should become necessary.

Q. What will each person's allowance of fruit spreads be? A. Jams and jellies are not rationed on a per person allowance. They will be bought with processed food points.

Q. Why have these products been brought under rationing? A. Jams, jellies and other fruit spreads are becoming an important food item because of the increased consumption of bread.

Rationing will slow down the present rate of buying so that available supplies will last throughout the year and each person gets his fair share.

FIGHTING GROWS IN INTENSITY, DIET INFORMED

Tojo Says Enemy Defeated In Beginning, Now Strikes Back

ported by the Office of War Information.

The Diet session was called to approve an "urgent supplementary budget and other legislative bills" pertaining to the Japanese government's war mobilization program.

An indication that the Japanese planned to increase preparations against American air attacks on the Nipponese mainland was seen in the fact that a special large fund is being asked for in order to establish a new "air defense general headquarters."

Calls For Action

Hirohito called on the Diet to fulfill its duties under total war by passing the measures which raise the 1943 general account to yen 14,024,000,000—(Editor's note: in the last foreign exchange quotation between the dollar and yen in 1940 the yen was worth approximately 23.4 cents and according to this ratio the appropriations would total $2,281,616,000 (B).)

Text of Hirohito's rescript, as given by the Tokyo home radio, follows:

"We hereby conduct the ceremony opening the imperial diet on this day and so announce to the members of the house of peers and the house of representatives.

"We rejoice over the fact that the warriors in the outer lands are fighting gallantly everywhere and are further applying their valor by overcoming a thousand and one difficulties and that furthermore the construction of greater East Asia is progressing day by day and the relationship among the people of our Allied countries is becoming firmer.

Grave Situation

"The present situation is truly grave. Great is the expectation placed upon the people of the nation and the people must fully display their total strength, and thereby destroy the evil ambition of the enemy nations.

"We have confidence in the true valor of our advancing army and look forward to the speedy attainment of the objectives of the sacred war.

"We have ordered the ministers of state to present to the imperial diet the urgent supplementary budget and other legislative bills.

"It is expected of you that you will understand our wishes and will deliberate upon them in harmony, thereby fulfilling your duties under the total war."

In his address as Premier, Tojo said:

"Japan expects and believes firmly that her ally, Germany, will in due course attain the desired results in the coming new operations and that the day will soon arrive when she will in full collaboration with Japan bring the United States and Britain to their knees."

Tojo devoted the rest of his address to praise of Japan's "international good faith" as displayed in her "emancipation" of the occupied countries of the Far East. Denouncing the "imperialism and oppression" of the United States and Great Britain, he spoke glowingly of the "independence" which he claimed Japan has bestowed on Burma and the Philippines and promised greater "cooperation" with Thailand.

He dwelt at length on the Japanese-sponsored "provisional government of India" set up in Singapore under Subhas Chandra Bose, the renegade Indian extremist, and said it was a "pleasure" for Japan "to support that government consistently in the future and to put forth her utmost effort for the independence and emancipation of India."

Tojo delivered the same address to the house of peers and house of representatives and will speak to the two chambers again in his other role as war minister.

Navy Minister Shigetaro Shimada also addressed the Diet, giving another of his reports in which Allied losses always outweigh those of Japan by a ratio of four or five to one.

Shimada's report, as described by the Japanese Domei agency in a transmission designed especially for American consumption, claimed that in the period from June 15 to October 20, Japanese armed forces had sunk 17 Allied cruisers, 18 destroyers, 22 submarines, and 70 transports totaling 320,000 tons "as well as 70 other war vessels, and has also damaged a number of enemy war vessels."

He also claimed American plane losses of 1,613 during the same period.

Against this prodigious accomplishment, Shimada said Japan lost only six destroyers and "12 other war vessels as well as 415 planes."

FUGITIVE SOUGHT

Police have been asked to watch for Harold Betts, 17, and John Frain, 16, both of whom escaped the Lancaster Boys' Industrial school at noon Monday. One of the boys was reported headed toward Circleville.

MALONE'S SUIT AGAINST MILL IS UNDER WAY

Trial opened Tuesday before Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood in Columbus in the $51,500 suit brought by Carl Malone of Circleville for injuries sustained in the plant of John W. Eshelman and Sons, also of Circleville.

Malone stepped into a floor opening and caught his foot in machinery, mangle, and ultimately losing the foot.

He asks $51,500 for the injury.

SHOCK TROOPS ON WAY

CAMP ABBOTT, Ore.—Britain's famed Commandos will have their counterpart in engineers being trained at Camp Abbott, who are receiving Ranger training along with their regular combat courses. Engineers are as truly the shock troops of modern warfare as are paratroops, in the opinion of Lieut. Col. Clarence L. Douglas, director of training at Camp Abbott. He points out that they open the way for both foot and mechanized troops and make the initial landings on enemy-held beaches.

'SUPER-POWER' RADIO

DETROIT.—Carl J. Maesen, electronic engineer for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, revealed recently that "super-power" radio will be able to locate Iceland and Chinese stations as easily as Detroit's WXYZ or New York's WJZ.

"In our present broadcasting field, the trend of ever-increasing power through electronic application leads us to predict the building of 'super-power' broadcasting stations of 750,000 to 1,000,000 watt output," he said.

ALLIES FORCE HUNS BACK TO NEW ROME LINE

Seven Additional Towns In Italy Fall To Surging Yanks And British

ing for control of Isernia, German communications center is heavy.

That the combined drive of the American and British forces soon will attain its immediate objective, the liberation of historic Rome, was expressed by the Eighth Army's commander, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, during a surprise visit to Cairo, according to a Reuter dispatch said the Allies soon will enter the final phase of the war, adding:

"Bad weather is coming but they tell me there are comfortable winter quarters in Rome."

Allies Drive Wedge

Latest advances of the United Nations forces were reported after earlier drives by Clark's men pounded a wedge into German positions north of the Regia canal, outflanking them with the occupation of Sparanise. Capture of this town imperilled Nazi forces in a dangerous pocket.

Nazi forces on the southern Russian front faced the mounting danger of encirclement as Soviet troops drove southwestward from the Kremenchug breakthrough and westward from the Melitopol sector.

The Germans were seeking to evacuate their garrison from the newly-captured steel cities of Dnepropetrovsk and Dniopropetrovsk-Kamenskaya which were taken by storm and flanking movements. In pulling their troops westward, the Nazis were threatened by the two encircling prongs of Russian advances, and hampered by overly-crowded roadways.

Reports from neutral Stockholm told of a German military spokesman who admittedly was worried by the situation, he said the German high command already had initiated the "complete" evacuation of the Crimea, which is threatened by the Melitopol advance, and added:

"If reserves don't arrive on time, the German high command won't be able to check the advance of the Russian mass of steel which is followed by countless infantry divisions."

Reds Active

Meanwhile, the Red Army pounded the important mining and rail center of Krivoi Rog with heavy artillery, while spearheads probed into the city's suburbs. And the Melitopol rail town became a base for Russian drives which annexed at least 40 more towns, as Cossack cavalry roamed as far south as the Perekop isthmus to the Crimea.

The other Axis partner was heavily pounded too. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme Allied commander in the Southwest Pacific, told of new staggering raids carried out against the important Japanese base of Rabaul in New Britain.

At least 123 enemy aircraft were definitely destroyed in the two-day operation by Allied Liberators and Mitchell bombers. In addition, some 45 more Japanese planes were listed as "probables."

Other widespread air raids were aimed at enemy positions in the island arc north and east of New Guinea. The Kahili and Kara airdromes on Bougainville in the Solomons were raided, and shipping in the islands was pounded.

Allied airmen damaged a 2,500-ton cargo vessel off Greenich island, and left another smaller ship afire. Two Japanese destroyers were bombed and one left virtually sinking off Cape Orford, while other United Nations fliers sank five coastal vessels.

It was no wonder then, that Emperor Hirohito saw fit to tell his people at the opening of the 83rd Nipponese special parliamentary session that "the present war situation is truly grave."

His address called on the "legislators" to pass measures to raise the 1943 general account. It includes provision for a new "air defense general headquarters"—indicating the Japs' well-founded fear that the home islands will be heavily raided from the air.

ELDRED CAYCE RESIGNS RATION MILEAGE PANEL

Resignation of Eldred A. Cayce as a member of the mileage panel for the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office was submitted Tuesday. Mr. Cayce has been advanced by the Ralston Purina Co., of which he is local manager, to the purchasing department in the company's main offices in St. Louis. While he doesn't take his new post until January 1, Mr. Cayce expects to spend much of his time in St. Louis between now and the first of the year.

Verbal resignation of Herman Hill, who is leaving Circleville November 1 to take over a new hardware and farm equipment business in Warren, O., has also been submitted.

The local board is expected to announce soon the selection of new members to replace the resigned men.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Something for Jerry

American workers since the beginning of the war have manufactured 25,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, or enough bullets to fire 1,500 shots at every Axis soldier in the world. The Garand rifle which fires 60 shells per minute costs $85 or just about the cost of four $25 War Bonds. Figure it out yourself and buy more Bonds.

The Army General Staff prides itself on making the American soldier the best equipped and the most protected fighter in the world. It's lives or money. Your War Bonds provide the money.

LOCAL MASONS INITIATE WASHINGTON C. H. MEN

Circleville chapter No. 20 Royal Arch Masons, is cooperating with the Washington C. H. chapter in seeking to complete initiation for three Washington C. H. men who are about to enter service.

The three Washington C. H. men, whose names were not learned by local Masonic order members, were given the most excellent degree Monday evening. They had already taken two degrees in their own lodge, and they are scheduled to go to Chillicothe Tuesday evening to complete their work.

Harry E. Sark, high priest of the local chapter, said Tuesday that three Circleville candidates were also given the most excellent degree Monday evening.

MRS. VIRGINIA ADKINS RESIGNS STATE POSITION

Resignation of Mrs. Virginia Smith Adkins of Circleville as administrator of the division of aid for dependent children, effective November 1, was announced Tuesday by Judge Lemuel B. Weldon of probate court. The division of aid for dependent children is operated under supervision of the probate court.

Mrs. Adkins will be succeeded by Mrs. Eleanor Westenhaver Skaggs, who has been working in the office for the last several weeks. The appointment of Mrs. Skaggs as case worker is provisional, Judge Weldon pointed out.

JAP EVACUATION OF KISKA MADE BY SUBMARINES

some estimate of the Jap losses and he finally added:

"I can say we got quite a few—enough to make it hurt."

At another point, he said that American warships had "some success" in getting Jap subs going to and from Kiska, and added that "I hope some of them were filled with evacuees but we don't know."

Kinkaid outlined the entire Aleutian campaign and recalled that the drive to oust the Japanese from American soil began January 12 of this year when American forces landed on Amchitka island, only 70 miles from Kiska, and set up an air base.

Systematic Attack

From Amchitka American planes began a systematic blasting of Kiska. This was followed May 12 by the invasion of Attu, the object of which was to cut off Kiska.

He was asked if he could express an opinion of the importance of the Aleutians for offensive purposes. He hesitated, explaining that he personally felt they were "extremely important," but added that every commander felt his area was a vital one.

"However, it is a short route to Japan," Kinkaid said.

To explain his point, he said that from Seattle to the vital Jap base at Paramushiru was a distance of 3,000 miles and that "three-quarters of the way now is protected by our bases."

Reporters then asked if American recapture of the Aleutians definitely removed the threat to America's west coast. He replied:

"I don't see how anyone can get gray hairs about an attack on the West Coast."

In announcing Kinkaid's transfer to the Southwest Pacific, Knox said that Carpenter would leave that area to take over the post of commandant in the Ninth Naval District with headquarters in Chicago. Carpenter will succeed Rear Admiral John Downes, who is retiring.

FINNS READY TO TALK PEACE

press, when it does mention Finland, takes the position that the present Finnish government is not representative of the people.

In order to settle this question in the mind of world public opinion, responsible diplomatic sources in Washington think it would be a good idea if Finland held a general election and set up a new government that unquestionably represented the people.

Finland's last general election was held in July, 1939. It is believed a new election would result in a majority for the social democrats, who are strongly in favor of a separate peace with Russia on a basis that assured Finland's independence.

There is a growing belief in diplomatic circles that Finland is eager to get out of the war. However, the presence of some 90,000 German troops in that country, and uncertainty over Russia's demands is said to make the Finns reluctant to risk withdrawal from the war entirely on their own initiative.

If Russia should indicate its willingness to discuss reasonable peace terms with Finland now, diplomatic Washington believes the Finns would risk Adolf Hitler's anger to consider the possibility of a separate peace.

There has been no major fighting between the Finns and Russians since the Spring of last year. Finland has maintained a defensive position, while the last Soviet offensive was launched in May, 1942.

ery and registered mail, would also be subjected to increases.

2. Boosts in the excises on so-called luxuries, including another dollar on each quart of liquor; a 50 percent increase in the tax rate on jewelry, furs, lipstick, nail polish, etcetera; a boost from five to 15 percent in the tax on cabaret charges; a penny increase in the tax on 15 cent cigarettes; a penny on five cent soft drinks; and a 15 percent levy against the manufacturer's sale price on candy and chewing gum; a tax of four percent of the total wagers on pari-mutuel betting machines.

3. So-called necessities that would be hit include: gasoline tax from 1.5 cents per gallon to two cents; local telephone tax rates from the present seven percent to 15 percent, long distance 20 to 25 percent; transportation of persons from 10 percent to 15 percent; electrical energy 3.33 percent to five percent; and electric light bulbs and tubes from five percent to 15 percent.

In addition, amusement taxes would be raised from the present rate of one cent per 10 cents of admission, to two cents for each 15 cents. The articles which would be taxed for the first time include toilet soaps, tooth and mouth washes, dentifrices, handbags and wallets, soft drinks, candy and chewing gum, and parmutuel wagers.

Should the committee adopt the bulk of Stamm's proposals as it is expected to do, it would mark the third setback suffered by the administration's 10 billion, 500 million dollar tax program since it was first offered earlier this month.

This program which precipitated a congressional tax revolt calls for six billion, 500 million in additional income taxes, two billion, 500 million in excises, one billion, 100 million in corporation taxes, and 400 million in estate gift levies. The committee has already declared that there shall be no boost in personal income taxes, none on estates and gifts. It appears likely to adopt only a part of the excise program, and possibly none of the corporation proposals.

ACTIVITY LOOMS FOR OPA BOARD PRICE PANEL

Indication that there will be increased activity in the Office of Price Administration price panel's work in the next few weeks were noted Tuesday by George D. McDowell, local rationing board chairman, after a representative from the state OPA office suggested during a conference that he expand the local price panel.

Mr. McDowell said that it is probable that two and possibly three more members will be added. Cooperation of the retail merchants' committee of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in choosing the new members of the panel will probably be asked.

At present the price panel has three members, Harry Sohn, Harold Defenbaugh and Cornell Copeland, with Don Mason, price adviser, also considered a member of the panel.

Mr. McDowell will await definite instructions from the district OPA before taking steps to increase the panel.

FIGHTING GROWS IN INTENSITY, DIET INFORMED

ported by the Office of War Information.

The Diet session was called to approve an "urgent supplementary budget and other legislative bills" pertaining to the Japanese government's war mobilization program.

An indication that the Japanese planned to increase preparations against American air attacks on the Nipponese mainland was seen in the fact that a special large fund is being asked for in order to establish a new "air defense general headquarters."

Calls For Action

Hirohito called on the Diet to fulfill its duties under total war by passing the measures which raise the 1943 general account to yen 14,021,000,000—(Editor's note: in the last foreign exchange quotation between the dollar and yen in 1940 the yen was worth approximately 23.4 cents and according to this ratio the appropriations would total $3,281,616,000 (B).)

Text of Hirohito's rescript, as given by the Tokyo home radio, follows:

"We hereby conduct the ceremony opening the Imperial diet on this day and so announce to the members of the house of peers and the house of representatives.

"We rejoice over the fact that the warriors in the outer lands are fighting gallantly everywhere and are further applying their valor by overcoming a thousand and one difficulties and that furthermore the construction of greater East Asia is progressing day by day and the relationship among the people of our Allied countries is becoming firmer.

Grave Situation

"The present situation is truly grave. Great is the expectation placed upon the people of the nation and the people must fully display their total strength, and thereby destroy the evil ambition of the enemy nations.

"We have confidence in the true valor of our advancing army and look forward to the speedy attainment of the objectives of the sacred war.

"We have ordered the ministers of state to present to the Imperial Diet the urgent supplementary budget and other legislative bills.

"It is expected of you that you will understand our wishes and will deliberate upon them in harmony, thereby fulfilling your duties under the total war."

In his address as Premier, Tojo said:

"Japan expects and believes firmly that her ally, Germany, will in due course attain the desired results in the coming new operations and that the day will soon arrive when she will in full collaboration with Japan bring the United States and Britain to their knees."

Tojo devoted the rest of his address to praise of Japan's "international good faith" as displayed in her "emancipation" of the occupied countries of the Far East. Denouncing the "imperialism and oppression of the United States and Great Britain, he spoke glowingly of the "independence" which he claimed Japan has bestowed on Burma and the Philippines and promised greater "cooperation" with Thailand.

He dwelt at length on the Japanese-sponsored "provisional government of India" set up in Singapore under Subhas Chandra Bose, the renegade Indian extremist, and said it was a "pleasure" for Japan "to support that government consistently in the future and to put forth her utmost effort for the independence and emancipation of India."

Tojo delivered the same address to the house of peers and house of representatives and will speak to the two chambers again in his other role as war minister.

Navy Minister Shigetaro Shimada also addressed the Diet, giving another of his reports in which Allied losses always outweigh those of Japan by a ratio of four or five to one.

Shimada's report, as described by the Japanese Domei agency in a transmission designed especially for American consumption, claimed that in the period from June 15 to October 20, Japanese armed forces had sunk 17 Allied cruisers, 18 destroyers, 22 submarines, and 70 transports totaling 320,000 tons "as well as 70 other war vessels, and has also damaged a number of enemy war vessels."

He also claimed American plane losses of 1,613 during the same period.

Against this prodigious accomplishment, Shimada said Japan lost only six destroyers and "12 other war vessels as well as 415 planes."

SHOCK TROOPS ON WAY

CAMP ABBOTT, Ore.—Britain's famed Commandos will have their counterpart in engineers being trained at Camp Abbott, who are receiving Ranger training along with their regular combat courses. Engineers are as truly the shock troops of modern warfare as are paratroops, in the opinion of Lieut. Col. Clarence L. Douglas, director of training at Camp Abbott. He points out that they open the way for both foot and mechanized troops and make the initial landings on enemy-held beaches.

ing for control of Isernia, German communications center is heavy.

That the combined drive of the American and British forces soon will attain its immediate objective, the liberation of historic Rome, was expressed by the Eighth Army's commander, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, during a surprise visit to Cairo, according to a Reuters dispatch said the Allies soon will enter the final phase of the war, adding:

"Bad weather is coming but they tell me there are comfortable winter quarters in Rome."

Allies Drive Wedge

Latest advances of the United Nations forces were reported after earlier drives by Clark's men pounded a wedge into German positions north of the Regio canal, outflanking them with the occupation of Spaurize. Capture of this town imperiled Nazi forces in a dangerous pocket.

Nazi forces on the southern Russian front faced the mounting danger of encirclement as Soviet troops drove southwestward from the Kremenchug breakthrough and westward from the Melitopol sector.

The Germans were seeking to evacuate their garrison from the newly-captured steel cities of Dniepropetrovsk and Dnieprozhezhinsk-Kamenskaya which were taken by storm and flanking movements. In pulling their troops westward, the Nazis were threatened by the two encircling prongs of Russian advances, and hampered by overly-crowded roadways.

Reports from neutral Stockholm told of a German military spokesman who admittedly was worried by the situation, he said the German high command already had initiated the "complete" evacuation of the Crimea, which is threatened by the Melitopol advance, and added:

"If reserves don't arrive on time, the German high command won't be able to check the advance of the Russian mass of steel which is followed by countless infantry divisions."

Reds Active

Meanwhile, the Red Army pounded the important mining and rail center of Krivoi Rog with heavy artillery, while spearheads probed into the city's suburbs. And the Melitopol rail town became a base for Russian drives which annexed at least 40 more towns, as Cossack cavalry roamed as far south as the Perekop isthmus to the Crimea.

The other Axis partner was heavily pounded too. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme Allied commander in the Southwest Pacific, told of new staggering raids carried out against the important Japanese base of Rabaul in New Britain.

At least 123 enemy aircraft were definitely destroyed in the two-day operation by Allied Liberators and Mitchell bombers. In addition, some 45 more Japanese planes were listed as "probables."

Other widespread air raids were aimed at enemy positions in the island arc north and east of New Guinea. The Kahili and Kara airbases on Bougainville in the Solomons were raided, and shipping in the islands was pounded.

Allied airmen damaged a 2,500-ton cargo vessel off Greenwhich island, and left another smaller ship afire. Two Jap destroyers were bombed and one left virtually sinking off Cape Orford, while other United Nations fliers sank five coastal vessels.

It was no wonder then, that Emperor Hirohito saw fit to tell his people at the opening of the 83rd Nipponese special parliamentary session that "the present war situation is truly grave."

His address called on the "legislators" to pass measures to raise the 1943 general account. It includes provision for a new "air defense general headquarters"—indicating the Japs' well-founded fear that the home islands will be heavily raided from the air.

SPOILED CHILDREN

PERHAPS the rod is spared too much in these days. Certainly in thousands of cases the child is spoiled, for lack of supervision and correction. One phase alone, of this deterioration of juvenile behavior, is worth much more attention than it usually gets, because it is an annoying and dangerous symptom. This is the bad behavior of so many boys and girls in movie theatres. It involves not only annoying pranks, but often serious destruction of property.

Such vandalism, a motion picture editor writes, is at a new high. It has grown so bad that Motion Picture Councils have had to take it up. "A part of the public knows of this vandalism," he says, "because so much of the vandals' handiwork is in evidence. The theatre man is beside himself to stop it; but the vandal, like other cowards, works in secret and in the dark, and is not easily caught."

There is too much liberty and too little supervision of children, and too much loose money in their pockets. War times, too, tend to increase such juvenile lawlessness. When they hear and read of destruction abroad on a vast scale, and see the pictures of ruined cities, many of them, instead of being horrified, seem to accept it as justification of their own lawlessness.

The movies are noisier, and getting worse, says the movie editor; because these juveniles can do their damage in the dark, and because of parental neglect. "Only yesterday," he says, "they were infants kicking the floors and screaming 'I hate you' every time they were denied their own way." The parents are to blame, and the war now is to blame; but there must be correction.

UNEASY GERMANS

THE Nazis are reported to be planning a withdrawal from the Baltic countries of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. While they are now building a line of fortifications along the Russian-Estonian border, its construction is said to be of a temporary nature, useful for delaying an attack, rather than a serious barrier against the Soviets.

Such a retreat would meet the pressing need to shorten the German lines and make more soldiers available for operations elsewhere. On the other hand it would be a confession that the capture of Leningrad was out of the question, and further depress the already low spirits of the home front. It would also encourage the thousands of guerrillas in the Baltic states who have hidden supplies of arms, and only await signs of German weakness before attacking.

SENATE PEACE RESOLUTION

WASHINGTON—Last week's secret session of the Senate Foreign Relations committee to consider plans for permanent peace should have been witnessed by every mother anxious to rid the world of future war.

The doors were closed to press and public, but here is what happened.

Four senators called on the committee to urge a resolution with real teeth, embracing a police force, and authorizing the U. S. A. to join with United Nations and others to set up world machinery for peace.

These four senators were Ball of Minnesota, Burton of Ohio, Hatch of New Mexico and Hill of Alabama. For short, they are called B2H2. They are not members of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, so handsome chairman "Long Tom" Connally kept them waiting while he polled the committee on the more conservative resolution which its own members had drawn up. Their much more vague resolution has the approval of such isolationists as North Dakota's Nye, which makes many non-isolationists leery of it.

Chairman Connally went the rounds. He asked what each member thought of the committee's own resolution. After he had put most of them on record for the conservative resolution, he finally mentioned the fact that the four non-member senators—B2H2—were present.

"Does the committee wish to hear them?" he asked.

INTRUDERS FOR PEACE

Senator Barkley of Kentucky moved that the intruders be heard. Whereupon Hatch of New Mexico read a long statement, able but wordy. Republicans Ball and Burton appeared more briefly. This left five minutes to Hill of Alabama.

Then Senator Pepper proposed that the committee hold public hearings. On such an important subject as permanent world peace, Pepper said, he thought the people who have to sacrifice and suffer during war should be heard. He especially suggested that the committee call as witnesses the Catholic, Protestant, Jewish groups which had adopted broad resolutions for peace machinery.

Senator Murray of Montana, and Hiram Johnson of California, a devout isolationist, agreed with him. But the committee voted otherwise. Chairman Connally said that it was important to bring out a resolution soon and hearings would take two or three weeks.

"I believe I should serve notice on the gentlemen," warned Pepper, "that I intend to bring the strong resolution up on the floor and press for adoption."

A scowl passed across Tom Connally's handsome brow.

"It's a question of votes," he remonstrated. "It's votes—it's what we can pass through the senate."

"I beg to disagree," countered Pepper. "It's not a matter of what we can pass through the senate, it's what we should pass. If a thing is not right we should not pass it, no matter how many votes we can muster. We mustn't fool the world about anything as sacred as future peace, and we must not go on record with an ambiguous resolution which we don't really mean."

For Tuesday, October 26

THE ASTROLOGICAL testimonies on the affairs of this day are deemed as of "mixed influence." There are several signs of progress and gratification in many directions, with the mind surprisingly stimulated for brilliant achievement, with energies keyed to initiative and novelty. However, there may be an undercurrent of subtle and malicious undermining, with jealousy and vindictiveness, and this may beget depression, discouragement, and a bitterness that may prompt to reprisals of a kindred nature. If this could be tactfully and shrewdly handled the promises are for financial success and personal satisfaction. Be diplomatic.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are likely to encounter a year to try their patience, endurance, and give them a chance to test their philosophy, cleverness and diplomatic spirits. With these contrary and perverse circumstances tactfully and even graciously manipulated, with awareness to the deep and sinister undercurrents of jealousy and envy there is excellent promise of more than brilliant accomplishment. The mentality should be stimulated to exceptional performance, should they not yield to fear, depression and a kindred spirit of revenge and reprisal. Placate elders.

A child born on this day, although gifted with excellent mental abilities of a creative and ingenious nature, yet may give way to depression and morbidity, to ruin their chances. Health should be considered.

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX

ADAM steadied Brenda. "There, there, darling. Don't let it get you." Then he released her and stood miserably still. "I never felt so helpless in all my life," he said. "I have to do something!" He caught his breath and tried to smile. "After all my detective work, you take over. Gosh!"

"You're not mad about it, are you?" Brenda said, searching his face.

"No, of course not. Only you—a woman—handling an emergency like a—"

"A man?"

"No, a movie heroine."

Brenda took his hand. "Come on, let's go see how Zeb's feeling."

"He'll be all right," the doctor told them. "Well enough to testify against the men who shot him."

"And against that man Otto, too," Zeb said in a low voice.

"What's he got to do with it?" Adam asked, bending closer to the wounded boy.

"He's been helping the other men," said Zeb. "I was scared he was all the time, but I saw him tonight—in the cellar with the others."

"And your aunt, Zeb," said Adam. "Do you think she has anything to do with all this?"

Zeb began to cry softly. "Yes, sir, I'm scared she has. But maybe she was drove into it—on account of her folks back in Germany."

Adam straightened up. He felt sick and shaken with anger.

"I'm going," he said to Brenda. "I can't stay here and do nothing."

"Going where?" Brenda cried.

"To the Johnson farm," Adam replied. "The police may need help." He patted his gun—the one he always kept in his car in case of an emergency. "Telephone Mrs. Platt that the dress rehearsal is off—that neither of us can get there."

Brenda caught his hand. "Oh, Adam, do take care of yourself, please," she begged. And then, forcing a smile, she said, "You called me 'darling' just now—remember?"

"Did I?" said Adam, as he bent to kiss her.

But their lips did not meet. There was a terrific explosion. The floor seemed to buckle underneath them, and they were flung against the wall.

The suddenness of the explosion so stunned them both for several seconds that neither one moved. Then Adam became conscious of the fact that Brenda was pressed tight to him, her arms about his neck, her face hidden against his lapels.

"Brenda," he called, "are you hurt?"

Brenda stirred. "No," she said, looking up and around her. "But look at Uncle Joseph Leigh—he's been blown off the wall!"

Adam looked and saw a portrait lying nearby, its frame twisted and broken. Then he saw glass all about the remains of several windows.

"The factory!" he cried, and ran for the door. "You stay here with Zeb and the doctor, and I'll—"

"I'm going with you!" Brenda said. "I've had first aid training." She passed him in her hurry. "Come on!"

They didn't wait to explain to the doctor, but ran down the steps and out to where Adam had left his car.

"I hope the explosion didn't put it out of commission," he said, as he leaped in. Brenda right behind him. He pressed the starter. "It works, thank God!" he exclaimed—and they were off.

But a mile down the road they were stopped. Two policemen and two men whom Adam recognized as factory guards hurried up to the car.

"You'll have to detour," one of them said.

"I haven't time," said Adam. "I've got to get to the factory."

"There's been an explosion, and—"

"Are you telling us?" said one of the cops. "That's why you can't get by. There's a hole in the road down yonder that looks like a volcano crater."

"For Pete's sake, man," said Adam, exasperated, "tell us what happened."

"An auto blew up," said one of the men. "I shot at the tire to make it stop, and must have hit a bomb instead."

"Whose auto?" Adam demanded.

"Those two men Miss Brenda telephoned about owned it," was the reply. "We surrounded the old Johnson farmhouse, after getting her call, and the men tried to escape—"

"That Otto, who worked at your factory, was one of them," one of the factory guards cut in.

"Yep," said the other speaker, "but he won't work in any more factories."

"You mean he's dead?" Brenda gasped.

"Yes'm. He'll have to be gathered up on an ash tray—him and the two other men."

"They were sneaking out of the cellar," another man said, taking up the story, "carrying some funny looking bundles. We ordered them to put up their hands, but all they did was leap into the car and drive off at full speed. We chased after them, and fired." He shrugged. "You know the rest."

Adam went a little limp. "Thank the Lord you got them before they reached the factory," he said.

"That's where they were heading, probably."

"Yes, sir," said a policeman. "The way I figure it is they were loading small bombs to be planted in the factory, and the bullet meant for the tire hit a high explosive—some dynamite or TNT—instead. And," he grinned crookedly, "three bad little men never got to market."

Brenda leaned heavily against Adam, her hand over her eyes. He slipped his arm about her.

"Everything's worked out Okay, Brenda," he said. "Buck up."

"I am bucked up," Brenda said. And then, "Hain't you better send the policemen to pick up that pantry woman at her house? She may try to get away, or may be up to some devilment all her own."

"Right!" Adam gave the policemen directions on how to get to the home of Mrs. Rottler, and then told the guards to call on all the people who lived near the scene of the explosion and see what could be done—if anyone was hurt—and what were their needs. Then he turned to Brenda as the men hurried off. "Shall we go on with the dress-rehearsal?" he asked facetiously.

"No," said Brenda. "You had me telephone Mrs. Platt it was off. She sat straight and did things to her hair. Take me back to the house, Adam," she said. "The doctor and Zeb will want to know what's happened."

"Okay," said Adam. "We'll take Zeb into town if he's able to travel."

SPOILED CHILDREN

PERHAPS the rod is spared too much in these days. Certainly in thousands of cases the child is spoiled, for lack of supervision and correction. One phase alone, of this deterioration of juvenile behavior, is worth much more attention than it usually gets, because it is an annoying and dangerous symptom. This is the bad behavior of so many boys and girls in movie theatres. It involves not only annoying pranks, but often serious destruction of property.

Such vandalism, a motion picture editor writes, is at a new high. It has grown so bad that Motion Picture Councils have had to take it up. "A part of the public knows of this vandalism," he says, "because so much of the vandals' handiwork is in evidence. The theatre man is beside himself to stop it; but the vandal, like other cowards, works in secret and in the dark, and is not easily caught."

There is too much liberty and too little supervision of children, and too much loose money in their pockets. War times, too, tend to increase such juvenile lawlessness. When they hear and read of destruction abroad on a vast scale, and see the pictures of ruined cities, many of them, instead of being horrified, seem to accept it as justification of their own lawlessness.

The movies are noisier, and getting worse, says the movie editor, because these juveniles can do their damage in the dark, and because of parental neglect. "Only yesterday," he says, "they were infants kicking the floors and screaming 'I hate you!' every time they were denied their own way." The parents are to blame, and the war now is to blame; but there must be correction.

UNEASY GERMANS

THE Nazis are reported to be planning a withdrawal from the Baltic countries of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. While they are now building a line of fortifications along the Russian-Estonian border, its construction is said to be of a temporary nature, useful for delaying an attack, rather than a serious barrier against the Soviets.

Such a retreat would meet the pressing need to shorten the German lines and make more soldiers available for operations elsewhere. On the other hand it would be a confession that the capture of Leningrad was out of the question, and further depress the already low spirits of the home front. It would also encourage the thousands of guerrillas in the Baltic states who have hidden supplies of arms, and only await signs of German weakness before attacking.

A splendid quality is proper pride. Loyalty is a fine gift, too. It is a particular talent of Col. Edmund Starling, who is about to retire after 30 years as head of the White House secret service.

Colonel Starling has guarded the safety of Presidents Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt. Even his intimate friends, however, cannot persuade him to reveal one critical incident or thought concerning his White House charges.

Several publishing houses and a score of ghost writers are at work on the colonel trying to beguile him into giving his reminiscences to the public. But the colonel keeps on saying, "Now, I don't believe I ought to tell anything about that. Besides, there isn't anything special to say."

ASK ADAM

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

WATKINS E. WRIGHT

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX

ADAM steadied Brenda. "There, there, darling. Don't let it get you." Then he released her and stood miserably still. "I never felt so helpless in all my life," he said. "I have to do something!" He caught his breath and tried to smile. "After all my detective work, you take over. Gosh!"

"You're not mad about it, are you?" Brenda said, searching his face.

"No, of course not. Only you—a woman—handling an emergency like a—"

"A man?"

"No, a movie heroine."

Brenda took his hand. "Come on, let's go see how Zeb's feeling."

"He'll be all right," the doctor told them. "Well enough to testify against the men who shot him."

"And against that man Otto, too," Zeb said in a low voice.

"What's he got to do with it?" Adam asked, bending closer to the wounded boy.

"He's been helping the other men," said Zeb. "I was scared he was all the time, but I saw him tonight—in the cellar with the others."

"And your aunt, Zeb," said Adam. "Do you think she has anything to do with all this?"

Zeb began to cry softly. "Yes, sir, I'm scared she has. But maybe she was drove into it—on account of her folks back in Germany."

Adam straightened up. He felt sick and shaken with anger.

"I'm going," he said to Brenda. "I can't stay here and do nothing."

"Going where?" Brenda cried.

"To the Johnson farm," Adam replied. "The police may need help. He patted his gun—the one he always kept in his car in case of an emergency. 'Telephone Mrs. Platt that the dress rehearsal is off—that neither of us can get there.'"

Brenda caught his hand. "Oh, Adam, do take care of yourself, please," she begged. And then, forcing a smile, she said, "You called me 'darling' just now—remember?"

"Did I?" said Adam, as he bent to kiss her.

But their lips did not meet. There was a terrific explosion. The floor seemed to buckle underneath them, and they were flung against the wall.

The suddenness of the explosion so stunned them both for several seconds that neither one moved. Then Adam became conscious of the fact that Brenda was pressed tight to him, her arms about his neck, her face hidden against his lapels.

"Brenda," he called, "are you hurt?"

Brenda stirred. "No," she said, looking up and around her. "But look at Uncle Joseph Leigh—he's been blown off the wall!"

Adam looked and saw a portrait lying nearby, its frame twisted and broken. Then he saw glass all about, the remains of several windows.

"The factory!" he cried, and ran for the door. "You stay here with Zeb and the doctor, and I'll—"

"I'm going with you!" Brenda said. "I've had first aid training."

She passed him in her hurry. "Come on!"

They didn't wait to explain to the doctor, but ran down the steps and out to where Adam had left his car.

"I hope the explosion didn't put it out of commission," he said, as he leaped in, Brenda right behind him. He pressed the starter. "It works, thank God!" he exclaimed—and they were off.

But a mile down the road they were stopped. Two policemen and two men whom Adam recognized as factory guards hurried up to the car.

"You'll have to detour," one of them said.

"I haven't time," said Adam. "I've got to get to the factory. There's been an explosion, and—"

"Are you telling us?" said one of the cops. "That's why you can't get by. There's a hole in the road down yonder that looks like a volcano crater."

"For Pete's sake, man," said Adam, exasperated, "tell us what happened."

"An auto blew up," said one of the men. "I shot at the tire to make it stop, and must have hit a bomb instead."

"Whose auto?" Adam demanded.

"Those two men Miss Brenda telephoned about owned it," was the reply. "We surrounded the old Johnson farmhouse, after getting her call, and the men tried to escape—"

"That Otto, who worked at your factory, was one of them," one of the factory guards cut in. "Yep," said the other speaker, "but he won't work in any more factories."

"You mean he's dead?" Brenda gasped.

"Yes'm. He'll have to be gathered up on an ash tray—him and the two other men."

"They were sneaking out of the cellar," another man said, taking up the story, "carrying some funny looking bundles. We ordered them to put up their hands, but all they did was leap into the car and drive off at full speed. We chased after them, and fired." He shrugged. "You know the rest."

Adam went a little limp. "Thank the Lord you got them before they reached the factory," he said. "That's where they were heading, probably."

"Yes, sir," said a policeman. "The way I figure it is they were loading small bombs to be planted in the factory, and the bullet meant for the tire hit a high explosive—some dynamite or TNT—instead. And," he grinned crookedly, "three bad little men never got to market."

Brenda leaned heavily against Adam, her hand over her eyes. He slipped his arm about her.

"Everything's worked out Okay, Brenda," he said. "Buck up."

"I am bucked up," Brenda said. And then, "Hadin' you better send the policemen to pick up that pantry woman at her house? She may try to get away, or may be up to some devilment all her own."

"Right!" Adam gave the policemen directions on how to get to the home of Mrs. Rottler, and then told the guards to call on all the people who lived near the scene of the explosion and see what could be done—if anyone was hurt—and what were their needs. Then he turned to Brenda as the men hurried off. "Shall we go on with the dress rehearsal?" he asked facetiously.

"No," said Brenda. "You had me telephone Mrs. Platt it was off. She sat straight and did things to her hair. 'Take me back to the house, Adam,' she said. 'The doctor and Zeb will want to know what's happened.'"

"Okay," said Adam. "We'll take Zeb into town if he's able to travel."

Mrs. Charles Gusman Takes Auxiliary Post

New Officers of Legion Unit Installed

Mrs. Charles Gusman was installed as president of the American Legion auxiliary in a splendid session Monday in the Post room, Memorial hall. Mrs. Orin W. Dreisbach, president of the 7th district, American Legion auxiliaries, and outgoing president of the Circleville unit, served as installing officer. Others inducted included Mrs. Robert Young, first vice president; Mrs. Charles Smith, second vice president; Mrs. James Cook, treasurer; Mrs. James Stout, chaplain, and Mrs. B. T. Hedges, secretary. Mrs. Gusman was presented a lovely corsage of pink rose buds and Mrs. Dreisbach received a past president's pin from the organization.

An excellent group attended the meeting and enjoyed the cooperative supper served during the social hour. A basket of hardy chrysanthemums centered the buffet table and Halloween favors marked the covers at the long table where the members were seated. Napkins and other party appointments were appropriate to the Halloween season.

A series of games with many individual prizes occupied the group after the excellent supper was served.

During the business hour in charge of Mrs. Dreisbach plans were made for serving lunch at the Armistice Day party of the legion. Mrs. Young being named chairman of the committee in charge. Mrs. B. T. Hedges was made chairman of the committee in charge of the lunch to be served at the Jaycees' dance on Thanksgiving eve.

The hospitality committee for the installation supper included Mrs. Young, Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Dreisbach.

Monday Club

About 50 members of the Monday club gathered Monday in the club room, Memorial hall and enjoyed an evening of Russian music. Mrs. Joseph Adkins Jr. presented an interesting and informative paper on "The Music of Russia" and the Monday club chorus and several soloists were heard in fine selections by outstanding composers of that country.

Miss Margaret Rooney, president, was in the chair for the brief business meeting. The club voted to donate $1 to the Penny Art club and voted also to debate a change in time of opening the club at the next meeting, November 8. Because of illness, several changes were made in the planned program. Mrs. Theodore Huston replaced Miss Abbe Mills Clarke as piano accompanist and the chorus number, "Page from Homer", Rimsky-Korsakoff, was postponed until a later date.

Opening chorus selections were "Carol of the Russian Children", by Gaul and "When Jesus Was a Little Child", by Tchaikovsky.

Mrs. Ione Reichelderfer and Miss Gretchen Moeller played "Waltz", by Arensky as a two piano number.

"The Angelus", Tchaikovsky, was the selection presented by Mrs. Clark Will and Mrs. Thomas Armstrong. Mrs. Reichelderfer and Miss Moeller played "Serenata" by Moszkowski as their second piano duo.

In closing, the chorus sang "Chorus of Reapers", "Come Ye Maidens" and "Dawn", by Tchaikovsky.

Mrs. Adkins in her excellent paper discussed first the Church Music of Russia since in point of time, it came first. She told of St. John of Damascus in the eighth century systematizing the music for the Russian church, after his death little progress being made for a thousand years. Mrs. Adkins spoke of the organization of the Imperial choir in the fifteenth century, comparing it to the present-day Don Cossack chorus.

Mrs. Adkins discussed church music and its influence on the folk songs of Russia and the influence in turn of these songs on the music of the modern composers. Many of the Russian songs are sad, showing the shadowing effect of years of barbaric invasion of the country and of domestic tyranny. In contrast, some are extravagantly gay. There are many singing games and many songs are of gypsy origin. Dance tunes are sung in unison with the rhythm marked by the feet and the slow melodies are in minor keys.

All emotions of the Russian people find expression in song or dance, each season having its songs. Mrs. Adkins traced the development of Russian Art music from 1860 and mentioned the progress as remarkable. She gave excellent though brief reviews of the lives and accomplishments of the persons, largest crowd of the year, watched the Trojans of Southern California score a 6 to 0 victory over previously unbeaten College of the Pacific, in Los Angeles.

Bears in the league statistics released today. Clark raised his total yardage from scrimmage to 255 by picking up an additional 69 in 14 tries against the Brooklyn Dodgers last Sunday. Canadeo the same day was held to 8 yards in 11 thrusts at the line against the Lions at Detroit.

Two West Coast Teams May Play in Rose Bowl

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26—Signs pointed today to the possibility that the annual Rose Bowl football classic would be a strictly family affair this year, much like the Giants playing the Yankees in baseball's world series.

Events of the last few weeks have clarified the picture to this extent: That down Los Angeles way there is unbeaten and untied Southern California; that up north is unbeaten and untied Washington.

Throw in these facts—that wartime stringencies may prevent some outside team from coming to the coast and that it would be difficult to decide whether Washington or the Trojans should represent the coast.

Besides any eastern schools will have left by January 1 the former All-Americans and professional football players who as Marine or Navy trainees have sparked their temporary alma maters' shining victories.

Add them all together it spells Washington and USC in the Rose Bowl on New Year's day.

The Pacific conference at its last meeting allowed for a game between the northern and southern representatives should war conditions permit. The Trojans, consequently, have held December 4 open and the Coliseum in readiness — but the 48-hour absentee rule placed on military trainees makes it impossible for Washington to travel to Los Angeles on that day.

However, New Year's day will be included in Christmas vacations and the Huskies could easily keep an appointment with the Trojans in Los Angeles then.

NORTHERNERS WIN GRID GAME FROM NEW HOLLAND

Lineups included: Circleville: B. Strawser, P. Jenkins, L. Linton, H. Wilkins, H. Garrett, J. Jackson, B. Hill, E. Taylor, M. Woods, R. Woods and H. Robinson; New Holland: J. and G. Doyle, J. McCune, B. Stoney, B. Shaw, J. Thacker, C. Thacker, D. Ankrom, A. Fick, B. Allen and B. Noble.

THREE BUCKEYES MAY MISS HOOSIER GAME
COLUMBUS, Oct. 26—Eight of 11 starters for Ohio State against Northwestern last week were on the injured list today as the Buckeyes drilled for the Indiana invasion next Saturday. Three of the eight may not be able to start against the Hoosiers, Coach Paul Brown said. They are Dean Sensenbaur, left halfback; Gordon Appleby, center, and Bill Hackett, guard.

INDIANA WORKING ON OFFENSIVE WEAK SPOTS
BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 26 —The Indiana Hoosiers, after studying movies of their 34 to 0 victory over Wisconsin, took the field today to bolster weak spots in their offense for the Ohio State game at Columbus Saturday.

FOOTBALL FOR NAVY MEN WINS SLAP ON BACK

Commander Wickhorst Says Officials Satisfied With Training

CHICAGO, Oct. 26—Football has established its value in the eyes of U. S. Navy Officials and the Navy is well satisfied it kept the game as a part of its training program, Lieut. Commander Frank Wickhorst maintained today.

Commander Wickhorst, a former Navy star and now director of training for the nation's Navy pre-flight schools, presented his views at the weekly meeting of the Quarter Back Club.

"When the Navy was planning its pre-flight training program," he said, "football was one of the first subjects included and our experience since the inauguration of the school has taught us that football has not let us down."

"Slip" Madigan, football coach at the University of Iowa, warned the football rules committee against experimenting with new rules which would shackle the T-formation. He said:

"The growing popularity of the T-formation may prompt the rules committee to take some action to stop the T and this certainly would not be to the best interests of football."

"Coaches should devise defenses against the T rather than to raise a hue and cry because they seem to be unable to succeed in their defense plans."

About This And That In Many Sports

Freck Heath is the kind of a boy any high school football coach would go far out of his way to find for his squad. . . . The youth earned his nickname a few years back when his face was covered with freckles, and it still is, those freckles that can get through the bumps, scratches and bruises the Tiger halfback carries with him. . . . His right name is Edward, but that's neither here nor there. . . . Freck came up with a bad knee after the Wilmington game. . . . Saturday it was swollen to almost twice its size. . . . Monday it had returned to almost normal. . . . Asked if he would be ready for the Thursday night Greenfield game, Freck replied: "Sure, I'll play. I've got to play!"

And anyone who watches him play sees a swell youth giving everything he has to give CHS a winner. . . .

Coach Roy Black put his boys through their drills Monday evening, and expected to have a more strenuous workout Tuesday, with Greenfield coming to Circleville Thursday evening for an important game. . . . McClain was idle last Friday, its coach, John Greishelmer, taking in the Tiger-Wilmington game. . . . Greishelmer may get a surprise here Thursday evening, because the defense Coach Black had set up against Wilmington was one of those things you see once in a good many moons. . . . It stopped the Hurricane's running, and cold, but so far as pass defense was concerned it was nil. . . .

DUROCHER WILL RUN THE BUMS ANOTHER TERM
CHICAGO, Oct. 26—Creating an effect so startling it must have left the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America with its chins hanging down among its haberdashery, Bro. Rickey, the devout horse trader and eloquentist, announced yesterday that Leo Durocher had been re-engaged to manage the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1944.

In other words, Bro. Rickey, the master of all languages and the mixer of many, was clearly stating that he was hiring the guy he'd previously un-hired with elaborate ceremonies — sounding, all told, very much like the old mazzazza. But we wonder.

PETEY SCALZO FALLS BEFORE PHILLY FIGHTER
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 26—Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia was still in possession of the lightweight boxing championship today after an easy victory over Petey Scalzo of New York.

Montgomery scored a technical knockout over Scalzo, former featherweight champ, last night before 6,145 fans in Convention Hall in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

Bob won every round except the first which was even. He dropped Scalzo for a count of nine in the third round. Scalzo was knocked down twice in the fifth round, for a count of nine the first time and saved by the bell on the second occasion after the referee had counted eight.

C. H. S. RESERVES BOOK CLARKSBURG'S VARSITY
Circleville high reserves are scheduled to travel to Clarksburg Friday afternoon to meet the varsity team there. Coach Roy Black has not yet indicated who will be in his starting lineup.

Clarksburg won a 6 to 0 game last Friday from the Greenfield McClain reserves. A pass play, Roseboom to Garrison, scored the only touchdown in the first period.

PICKAWAY FIVE STARTS DRILLS FOR CAGE SKED
Pickaway township high school has 18 boys out for its squad this year, replacements for Jim Wolford and Junior Anderson being needed. First practices have already been held, and a willing bunch of boys is reported seeking first team berths.

Coach John Harden has high hopes for a winner.

The first game will be November 12 against Salsereek on the Salsereek floor. The complete schedule will be announced later. Pickaway has scheduled Circleville high for a February 11 date.

Roy Jenkins has been named team manager.

"Coaches should devise defenses against the T rather than to raise a hue and cry because they seem to be unable to succeed in their defense plans."

About This And That In Many Sports

Freck Heath is the kind of a boy any high school football coach would go far out of his way to find for his squad. . . . The youth earned his nickname a few years back when his face was covered with freckles, and it still is, those freckles that can get through the bumps, scratches and bruises the Tiger halfback carries with him. . . . His right name is Edward, but that's neither here nor there. . . . Freck came up with a bad knee after the Wilmington game. . . . Saturday it was swollen to almost twice its size. . . . Monday it had returned to almost normal. . . . Asked if he would be ready for the Thursday night Greenfield game, Freck replied: "Sure, I'll play. I've got to play." . . . And anyone who watches him play sees a swell youth giving everything he has to give CHS a winner. . . .

Coach Roy Black put his boys through their drills Monday evening, and expected to have a more strenuous workout Tuesday, with Greenfield coming to Circleville Thursday evening for an important game. . . . McClain was idle last Friday, his coach, John Greisheimer, taking in the Tiger-Wilmington game. . . . Greisheimer may get a surprise here Thursday evening, because the defense Coach Black had set up against Wilmington was one of those things you see once in a good many moons. . . . It stopped the Hurricane's running, and cold, but so far as pass defense was concerned it was nil. . . .

PICKAWAY FIVE STARTS DRILLS FOR CAGE SKED
Pickaway township high school has 18 boys out for its squad this year, replacements for Jim Wolford and Junior Anderson being needed. First practices have already been held, and a willing bunch of boys is reported seeking first team berths.

Coach John Harden has high hopes for a winner.

The first game will be November 12 against Saltcreek on the Saltcreek floor. The complete schedule will be announced later. Pickaway has scheduled Circleville high for a February 11 date.

Roy Jenkins has been named team manager.

"BURMA SURGEON"

Cavalcade of America will broadcast another stirring story from the war in the Far East, when episodes from Dr. Gordon Seagrave's best selling book "Burma Surgeon" are dramatized Monday, November 1, from the NBC studios in Hollywood. George Brent, leading man of the films, will be heard as Dr. Gordon Seagrave.

Many strange and unusual stories have come from this global war, but one of the most exciting is the story of the American medical missionary who came out of Burma with General Stilwell, and his own group of native nurses, trained by him. Dr. Seagrave certainly was forced to accomplish his medical miracles the hard way. He was handicapped by lack of equipment, lack of food, and virtually all of the necessities that are usually available even in field hospitals. He saw the entire war in Burma and managed to emerge with an unusually good record for taking care of the wounded Chinese and native soldiers.

MOORE, DURANTE

Garry Moore and Jimmy Durante spread out the welcome mat for Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, presenting their version of an Abbott-Costello broadcast, on Thursday at 9 p. m., over WLW. The program marks an NBC farewell for Moore and Durante, who turn over the Thursday night spot to Abbott and Costello beginning with the November 4 airing. Garry, a part-time Hans Christian Anderson, presents his original animal fable in verse, "Hugh, the Blue Gnu," and Jimmy sings a song written especially for the occasion, "Thank Your Lucky Stars," and Georgia's Gibbs solo rounds out the musical portion of the program.

TWO TURN FIREMEN

Jimmy Durante provides the hook and Garry Moore the ladder, as they demonstrate how to run a modern fire department (the wrong way) on Friday at 9 p. m., over WBNS. Musical highlights are Jimmy's "Who Will Be With You When I'm Far Away," Georgia Gibbs' solo, "Close To Me," and Roy Barty's orchestral arrangement of "Put Your Arms Around Me, Honey."

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Wilfred Pelletier, who will again conduct the "Metropolitan Auditions of the Air," is one of the busiest men in town. Besides his position as a permanent conductor of the Metropolitan Opera—which involves a lot more work than just waving a baton—he commutes weekly to Montreal, Canada, where he is head of the Conservatory of Music. And now, as one of the Metropolitan Opera Committee of Judges, Pelletier spends two afternoons a week hearing the preliminary auditions whose winners will be heard on the "Metropolitan Auditions of the Air" when the program returns to the Blue network on Sunday, November 28.

"Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street" books its guests far in advance. Lawrence Tibbett is scheduled for that Blue network series next January.

Lionel Stander, whose last radio appearance before going into the army was on "Stage Door Canteen" over CBS, is returning to the air. Private Stander will be added to the cast of "Full Speed Ahead," when the Air Force starts sponsoring the series over NBS starting November 3.

Bespectacled Phil Silvers, comedian, scored so well as a guest on Dinah Shore's variety program that Dinah is bringing him back for another appearance Thursday over CBS. Dinah's songs include a medley of "What Do You Do In the Infantry" and "All I Do Is Dream of You."

Eddie Cantor will be strutting with Hutton when Betty Hutton, the blonde bombshell, appears as his guest on "Time to Smile" over NBC Wednesday. A feature will be a duet by the pair dedicated to Navy Day.

Walter Pidgeon, of Hollywood, stars in "And No Birds Sing," presented by the "Treasure Star Parade" the week of October 31. "American Design" will feature Raymond Massey and Ward Wilson is heard in "Elementary, My Dear McGarry."

Army Depot To Conduct Local Campaign For Workers

LABOR SHORTAGE BIG PROBLEM AT COLUMBUS UNIT

Supplies Needed In Various War Theatres Piling Up In Plant

INSPECTION ARRANGED

Local Group Headed By Mayor To View Station Thursday Afternoon

Promising that no proselytizing will be attempted so far as Circleville industry is concerned, officials of the Army depot in Columbus are completing plans for a campaign to be conducted here next week for male labor. The campaign is expected to be conducted three days.

An outline of the program was discussed Monday afternoon when Captain Thomas F. Coyne, Jr., of the Quartermaster corps assigned to the depot, met with Mayor Ben H. Gordon and several Circleville industrial and business organization leaders to view the situation. Captain Coyne said the depot has thousands of items piled in its buildings ready for transit to the various war theatres. "But," the captain told the group, "this material doesn't help a bit toward winning the war so long as it remains at the Army depot. We have to get it packed and put on trains headed for Italy and India and New Guinea and to every other location throughout the world where American boys are fighting to end the war."

400 Workers Needed
The captain pointed out that 400 workmen are needed immediately for inside and outside assignments. The recruiting program will be carried on in all central Ohio cities and towns.

Circleville industrialists were promised that the Army will make no attempt to take any of their employees. "We know that you have a problem, too," Captain Coyne told the group, "and we will promise right now that no effort will be made to proselytize your men." He said that the Army depot will not take any person from another industry unless he has a certificate of availability required by the War Manpower Commission.

Patriotic Effort
"We are hoping that there are some men available in your community who could be interested in coming to the Army depot. We intend to try to point out the patriotic job they will be doing. And in addition they will be receiving good pay," the captain pointed out. He said that base pay is 68 cents an hour for inside work and 71 cents an hour for outside work based on a 40-hour week. Time and a half is paid for overtime.

Captain Coyne was accompanied to Circleville by Lloyd F. Brace, of the U. S. Civil Service Commission. In an effort to interest Circleville civic and industrial leaders in the work being done at the Army depot, Captain Coyne issued an invitation to Mayor Gordon and others to have lunch at the Officers' Club at the depot Thursday at noon. The depot commander will serve as their host and a tour will be made of the big depot so the local men will be given a better picture of what is going on there.

ODT RECORD SYSTEM REVISED FOR TRUCKS

Office of Defense Transportation, headed in the central Ohio area by A. F. Dankert, Columbus, is revising its record-keeping system for commercial vehicles so that truckers will not have such a difficult time in keeping up with ODT rulings.

Dankert said Tuesday that under the new record-keeping requirements only information which is specifically requested need be kept on the ODT's operating report form.

Only six questions are asked about truck operations on the new forms, these questions superseding the previously required quarterly operation reports and monthly idle vehicles report procedure.

Similarly, the new records replace those records which were required under the old quarterly operation and monthly idle vehicle report procedure.

The purpose of the new procedure for operation record-keeping and reporting is to enable the ODT to keep an accurate, up-to-date record of current motor vehicle operations. By having this information available, Dankert said, better assistance can be given to the motor transportation industry in securing adequate tires, motor fuel, parts, vehicles, manpower and other essentials.

Dankert invited truck, bus and taxicab operators in the Columbus district to contact the Columbus district office for further information regarding this new procedure. The Columbus district office is located at 3330 A. I. U. Building, Columbus, and covers operations in Wyandot, Crawford, Hardin, Marion, Morrow, Knox, Union, Delaware, Licking, Madison, Franklin, Fairfield, Fayette, Pickaway, Ross, Hocking and Vinton counties.

resolution was the kind that would sanction another congress of Vienna, by which three big nations tried to control the world.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, a would-be isolationist, complained that the new toothy resolution had omitted the Mackinac Conference safeguard that future peace machinery must be among "sovereign" nations. Republicans at Mackinac inserted this in order to bar the British dominions, which are part of the Empire and not sovereign.

However, the new teeth-in-peace resolution would permit Australia, Canada, etc., to serve with the United States on an equal basis, since they are now United Nations.

Finally the closed-door meeting adjourned with no conclusion except that every Senator realized one of the stiffest fights in recent history was going to take place on the Senate floor.

Afterwards, his friend and boss, Joe Pew, will know more about what GOP horse to back for 1944 . . . Harrison Spangler, present chairman of the Republican National Committee, also is taking a look-see round the country. When he left Washington he was most optimistic about the GOP upswing . . . The Texas political grapevine has it that Jesse Jones is out to control the Texas delegation for 1944, partly for the purpose of blocking Sam Rayburn and, some of Jesse's friends whisper, even to block a 4th term, should political sands shift. After all, a political delegation as large as that from Texas is

UNDER THE DOME

Gov. Arnall of Georgia complained to the President the other day about the muddled food situation in the Peach State. The President always has referred to Georgia's OPA, where Republicans held high jobs, as an illustration of how the joke was on him in making OPA appointments. He told Arnall that things were being straightened out . . . Boss Ed Flynn of the Bronx is about the only leading Democrat who says privately that Lieut. Gen. Haskell, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor of New York, can be elected. Most Dems have considered that Tom Dewey's candidate was sure to win . . . Lou Holland, former head of the Small War Plants Corporation, is one man who did not blow off venom after exiting from Washington. He has been minding his own business in Kansas City . . . State Department officials admit that what Senator Mead heard from North African French sources might be true, namely that the Germans may crack soon. The Germans are a rational people, and when they see they are licked, they do not, like the British, fight to the bitter end.

Army Depot To Conduct Local Campaign For Workers

LABOR SHORTAGE BIG PROBLEM AT COLUMBUS UNIT

Supplies Needed In Various War Theatres Piling Up In Plant

INSPECTION ARRANGED

Local Group Headed By Mayor To View Station Thursday Afternoon

Promising that no proselyting will be attempted so far as Circleville industry is concerned, officials of the Army depot in Columbus are completing plans for a campaign to be conducted here next week for male labor. The campaign is expected to be conducted three days.

An outline of the program was discussed Monday afternoon when Captain Thomas F. Coyne, Jr., of the Quartermaster corps assigned to the depot, met with Mayor Ben H. Gordon and several Circleville industrial and business organization leaders to view the situation.

Captain Coyne said the depot has thousands of items piled in its buildings ready for transit to the varied war theatres. "But," the captain told the group, "this material doesn't help a bit toward winning the war so long as it remains at the Army depot. We have to get it packed and put on trains headed for Italy and India and New Guinea and to every other location throughout the world where American boys are fighting to end the war."

400 Workers Needed

The captain pointed out that 400 workmen are needed immediately for inside and outside assignments. The recruiting program will be carried on in all central Ohio cities and towns.

Circleville industrialists were promised that the Army will make no attempt to take any of their employees. "We know that you have a problem, too," Captain Coyne told the group, "and we will promise right now that no effort will be made to proselyte your men." He said that the Army depot will not take any person from another industry unless he has a certificate of availability required by the War Manpower Commission.

Patriotic Effort

"We are hoping that there are some men available in your community who could be interested in coming to the Army depot. We intend to try to point out the patriotic job they will be doing. And in addition they will be receiving good pay," the captain pointed out. He said that base pay is 68 cents an hour for inside work and 71 cents an hour for outside work based on a 40-hour week. Time and a half is paid for overtime.

Captain Coyne was accompanied to Circleville by Lloyd F. Brace, of the U. S. Civil Service commission. In an effort to interest Circleville civic and industrial leaders in the work being done at the Army depot, Captain Coyne issued an invitation to Mayor Gordon and others to have lunch at the Officers' Club at the depot Thursday at noon. The depot commander will serve as their host and a tour will be made of the big depot so the local men will be given a better picture of what is going on there.

ODT RECORD SYSTEM REVISED FOR TRUCKS

Office of Defense Transportation, headed in the central Ohio area by A. F. Dankert, Columbus, is revising its record-keeping system for commercial vehicles so that truckers will not have such a difficult time in keeping up with ODT rulings.

Dankert said Tuesday that under the new record-keeping requirements only information which is specifically requested need be kept on the ODT's operating report form.

Only six questions are asked about truck operations on the new forms, these questions superseding the previously required quarterly operation reports and monthly idle vehicles report procedure.

Similarly, the new records replace those records which were required under the old quarterly operation and monthly idle vehicle report procedure.

The purpose of the new procedure for operation record-keeping and reporting is to enable the ODT to keep an accurate, up-to-date record of current motor vehicle operations. By having this information available, Dankert said, better assistance can be given to the motor transportation industry in securing adequate tires, motor fuel, parts, vehicles, manpower and other essentials.

Dankert invited truck, bus and taxicab operators in the Columbus district to contact the Columbus district office for further information regarding this new procedure. The Columbus district office is located at 3330 A. I. U. Building, Columbus, and covers operations in Wyandot, Crawford, Hardin, Marion, Morrow, Knox, Union, Dela-

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

resolution was the kind that would sanction another congress of Vienna, by which three big nations tried to control the world.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, a would-be isolationist, complained that the new toothy resolution had omitted the Mackinac Conference safeguard that future peace machinery must be among "sovereign" nations. Republicans at Mackinac inserted this in order to bar the British dominions, which are part of the Empire and not sovereign.

However, the new teeth-in-peace resolution would permit Australia, Canada, etc., to serve with the United States on an equal basis, since they are now United Nations.

Finally the closed-door meeting adjourned with no conclusion except that every Senator realized one of the stiffest fights in recent history was going to take place on the Senate floor.

POLITICAL CHAFF

Handsome John Hamilton, ex-chairman of the Republican National Committee, is taking a political look-see round the country. Afterwards, his friend and boss, Joe Pew, will know more about what GOP horse to back for 1944. . . Hamilton will visit his old home, Topeka, but he will not call on his old friend, Alf Landon, whose campaign he managed. They don't get along any more. . . Harrison Spangler, present chairman of the Republican National Committee, also is taking a look-see round the country. When he left Washington he was most optimistic about the GOP upswing. . . The Texas political grapevine has it that Jesse Jones is out to control the Texas delegation for 1944, partly for the purpose of blocking Sam Rayburn and, some of Jesse's friends whisper, even to block a 4th term, should political sands shift. After all, a political delegation as large as that from Texas is

UNDER THE DOME

Gov. Arnall of Georgia complained to the President the other day about the muddled food situation in the Peach State. The President always has referred to Georgia's OPA, where Republicans held high jobs, as an illustration of how the joke was on him in making OPA appointments. He told Arnall that things were being straightened out. . . Boss Ed Flynn of the Bronx is about the only leading Democrat who says privately that Lieut. Gen. Haskell, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor of New York, can be elected. Most Dems have considered that Tom Dewey's candidate was sure to win. . . Lou Holland, former head of the Small War Plants Corporation, is one man who did not blow off venom after exiting from Washington. He has been minding his own business in Kansas City. . . State Department officials admit that what Senator Mead heard from North African French sources might be true, namely that the Germans may crack soon. The Germans are a rational people, and when they see they are licked, they do not, like the British, fight to the bitter end.
